Home Learning

This week's home learning is now available on the school website. You can find it under Curriculum, Learning and Activities during school closure, then by selecting the correct week. This link will take you straight to this week -

Also look out for the teachers reading on class blogs (on Purple Mash).

The teachers would love to hear how home learning is going and how the children are getting on. Class teachers have set up Purple Mash blogs for their class to access and respond to, including reading a story. The teacher approves all posts from children, before being added for other class members to see.

The blog is accessed via the sharing tab at the top and then shared blogs – see diagram below:

Hope it's all going well - keep up the good work!

VE Day

On Friday 8th May the nation will be celebrating the 75th Anniversary of VE Day.

Under the circumstances most events will be cancelled but, if you are celebrating at home or if you have a garden picnic, send in your photographs to office@stpetersthanet.co.uk as we would love to see them!

Free School Meal Vouchers

The vouchers for May (4th- 22nd) have been processed and sent to Edenred. These should have been sent out to parents on Mon 4th May but, due to a backlog, they have been delayed. We have chased them and hope they will be with you in the next coming days. If we have any further updates we will let you know.

Lockdown news!

Louis H has enjoyed completing the home learning activities as well as baking with his sister!

Lockdown news!

Laila has been cheering on for the NHS each Thursday (including her dad, who's on the frontline!). Maybe you heard her banging her saucepan!

Darcy H-L completed her art project and chose an NHS theme. Fantastic effort Darcy!
